It's also about the environment. If you're confused or skeptical about how much you should actually be drinking to fit into a size two, you're not alone. Most women have no idea how much water they need to drink. That's why we at Stay Fit Juice wanted to take that mystery out of water for you by developing an automatic water dispenser that tells you exactly how much water to drink every day. It all began on a trip to Africa when Stay Fit Juice owner, Jessica Jensen and her husband Matt first began toying with the idea of developing a water dispenser. While in Africa, they found themselves sitting in an airplane over the African savannah and asked themselves, "Why don't we have a water dispenser on airplanes?" Well, they did. And it worked perfectly. No more opening a bottle of water, just press a button and get a glass of water in less than a minute. They knew that they had to bring this idea home to develop a more practical version. So together, the Johansen's came up with a water dispenser that was affordable, easy to use, and most importantly, healthy. The automatic water dispenser was developed and trademarked. Jessica became Stay Fit Juice. And the rest is history. That's why they've enlisted popular celebrity Dietitian, Dr. Lona Sandon, who helped put the Stay Fit Juice beverage line together. Dr. Sandon has joined forces with Stay Fit Juice to develop one of the most innovative and affordable automatic water dispensers on the market today. Stay Fit Juice is available for purchase nationwide. Visit
